SAFETY INSTRUCTIONS FOR CUSTOMERS HIRING CANOEING EQUIPMENT

The emergency number is 112

When renting the equipment, check that the canoe, paddles and barrel packs used as extra flotation bags are undamaged and in a proper condition. Check that the flotation vest/buoyancy aid/ the PFD (personal flotation device) and the helmet are in a good condition and that the locks are undamaged. Wear the buoyancy aid vest/the PFD all the time when paddling, and use the helmet in rapids. Keep all the clips of your BA-vest closed whenever you wear it. Read the safety instructions of the vest and always handle it carefully, for your life or someone else's may depend on it some time. Always wear at least a shirt under the BA-vest, even in warm conditions. Have the containers/flotation bags always properly fastened to the canoe/kayak.

When starting a canoeing trip, make sure someone knows where you are going and when you are coming back. As you paddle on, keep an eye on your surroundings so that you know where you are – if you happen to need help, the rescue authorities need information of your location (the name of the nearest rapids, resting place etc).

Take a first aid kit and a mobile phone with you and pack them in a waterproof container.

Before shooting any rapids, make sure there are no obstacles in the way (fallen trees etc). If you drift towards to a fallen tree, always try to get on the top of it.

Bear in mind that changes in water level change the paddling conditions in the rapids considerably. Please take the advance check instructions given in the canoeing route information leaflet seriously. Practise your canoeing skills so that you can control the canoe in rapids also.

Remember that you are responsible for all the damage caused to the equipment.

Do not paddle under the influence of alcohol for it would increase the risk of accident significantly. Furthermore, your insurance might not cover any damages you have caused while drunk.

The renter reserves the right to take the equipment back during the rental period, if inappropriate use or indifference to safety occurs. If this should happen, the rent paid will not be returned.

The customer is responsible for the damage caused to the equipment and for any lost equipment.

I have read and understood the safety instructions, and I accept the terms of renting equipment.

Enjoy the peace of nature, the many exciting rapids and company of other adventurers. Have a safe and enjoyable canoeing trip! Tel. +358 040 916 470 Päivi, 0400 271 581 Arto.
